

STRICKO GETS LIFE

Honda Australia's Managing Director, Stuart Strickland, was presented with a Lifetime Membership Award by the Federal Chamber of Automotive Industries (FCAI) at their Annual General Meeting held recently at the National Museum of Australia, Canberra. The Hon Ian Macfarlane MP, Minister for Industry, Tourism and Resources presented the award to Stuart who has continued to champion the motorcycle industry within the FCAI for many years now.

According to the presentation on the night, "If ever an Australian could lay claim to the title 'Mr Motorcycle', it is Stuart Strickland. He has been on the FCAI's motorcycle board for almost 20 years and has contributed greatly to making motorcycling not only safer, but also part of the automotive mainstream. Stuart has also been instrumental in the development of the HART rider training schools as well as the Honda Rider's Club of Australia. His exemplary service led to his appointment as Managing Director - one of the few nationals in the Honda world to hold that title."

OLD BIKE, NEW TECHNOLOGY

Farewell old friend

Honda's redoubtable CB250, the bike that launched a thousand riders, has been replaced by the new CBF250. Gone are the old bike's twin shocks and classic, yet dated, styling, replaced with a lightweight chassis, single rear spring-damper unit, tubeless tyres on cast aluminium wheels in a new stylish package.

The new 250 is priced at $5490+orc at Honda dealers everywhere.
